

Heart to Defend

Chorus

I was born by the sea
I was raised by mountain men
And I live by the blade in my hand
On my honor and my word
I would swear upon my sword
That I have the strength
That I have the will
That I have the heart to defend.

I am known among my kin
as a worthy friend and foe
And I know they'll stand beside me to the end
I keep that promise with me
So I never fight alone
For I have the strength to defend.

Chorus

I was born by the sea
I was raised by mountain men
And I live by the blade in my hand
On my honor and my word
I would swear upon my sword
That I have the strength
That I have the will
That I have the heart to defend.

So they say I'm large as life
I'm still lighter on my feet
And I'm more than just a giant among men
Know my mind will never waver under pressure or the heat
For I have the will to defend

Chorus

I was born by the sea
I was raised by mountain men
And I live by the blade in my hand
On my honor and my word
I would swear upon my sword
That I have the strength
That I have the will
That I have the heart to defend.

There's a token on my belt

There's a red thrum on my brow
And a smile for my one true love and friends
And though I may meet my death
I will make that final bow
For I have the heart to defend
